What curriculum does Promise Christian Preschool use?

We use Creative Curriculum, which is student-driven and aligns with CO State Standards for Early Childhood. We do not use predetermined units, but rather adapt this curriculum as we see fit. Studies show that children learn better when they are actively engaged in the topic of study. With this in mind, we take the interests and experiences of the students to determine what we will focus our learning around. Additionally, we use Teaching Strategies Gold as our assessment tool. Gold assesses the whole child and meets them where they are developmentally. It allows the teachers to plan for each child's development and goal-setting. Gold is used at the Kindergarten level in both Boulder Valley and St. Vrain schools. It is also used in many 0-3 programs as it can assess children from infancy through 3rd grade (age 8-9). Gold also aligns with CO state Standards.

How is Promise Christian Preschool different from a traditional preschool?

Being a Christian preschool, our curriculum includes biblical lessons as well as faith development. We teach using non-denominational Christian values. We celebrate Christmas and Easter and incorporate prayer into our daily routine. We create a family-like environment for our students, staff, and families, supporting each other through this wonderful, yet crazy stage of life.

What is your mission statement and educational philosophy?

It is our promise that we will provide age-appropriate educational programs that will encourage each child to grow spiritually, mentally, physically and socially in a loving and caring environment.

The purpose of Christian education is to direct the process of human development toward God's objective for all: Godliness of character and action. The goal of godly character and action will be reached by teaching each child: that they are personally known and loved by God; that they may know God through Jesus Christ; and how they can conform to the image of Jesus Christ. (Romans 8:29)

What holidays are celebrated at Promise? Are there any programs outside of the school day such as holiday plays, etc?

We celebrate all major US holidays as well as Christian holidays. We even celebrate some of the silly ones (national mismatched sock day, donut day, etc). We do have a few after-hours events including our Christmas celebration, Dad's night, Pre-K graduation and the end-of-year picnic. Most other events occur during class time, including Mom's day and our Easter celebration. A list of all our extracurricular events and celebrations will be made available prior to the start of the school year.

Is your program play-based or academic-based?

We are a play-based preschool. We teach through experiences and hands-on activities. Our lessons are designed around the process rather than product, meaning that the end result is less important than the learning done while doing. We do not use worksheets but learn while playing. On average, 97% of our pre-K was meeting or exceeding 5-year-old standards as well as being socially prepared for Kindergarten.

How is discipline handled?

Promise teachers incorporate social/emotional learning through regular lessons as well as daily interactions. We are intentional about our classroom environment and routine, resulting in very few major discipline needs. We look at all negative behavior as a teachable moment. There is often something driving that behavior that needs attention. We help students work through problems and emotions through modeling and calm conversations. If a student needs a break, we have a safe place in our classroom where the student and a teacher can go to work through any big emotions.

Security/safety

During classroom hours, the outside doors will remain locked. Doors will open 10 minutes before 9am and noon pick up time. If you need to enter the building, you will be able to ring the doorbell and the director will let you in. If someone other than the parent is planning on picking up your student, the parent will need to notify the director or staff and they will be required to show identification before allowing them to leave the building. Regular emergency drills are practiced with staff and students.
